Randonneur Chair

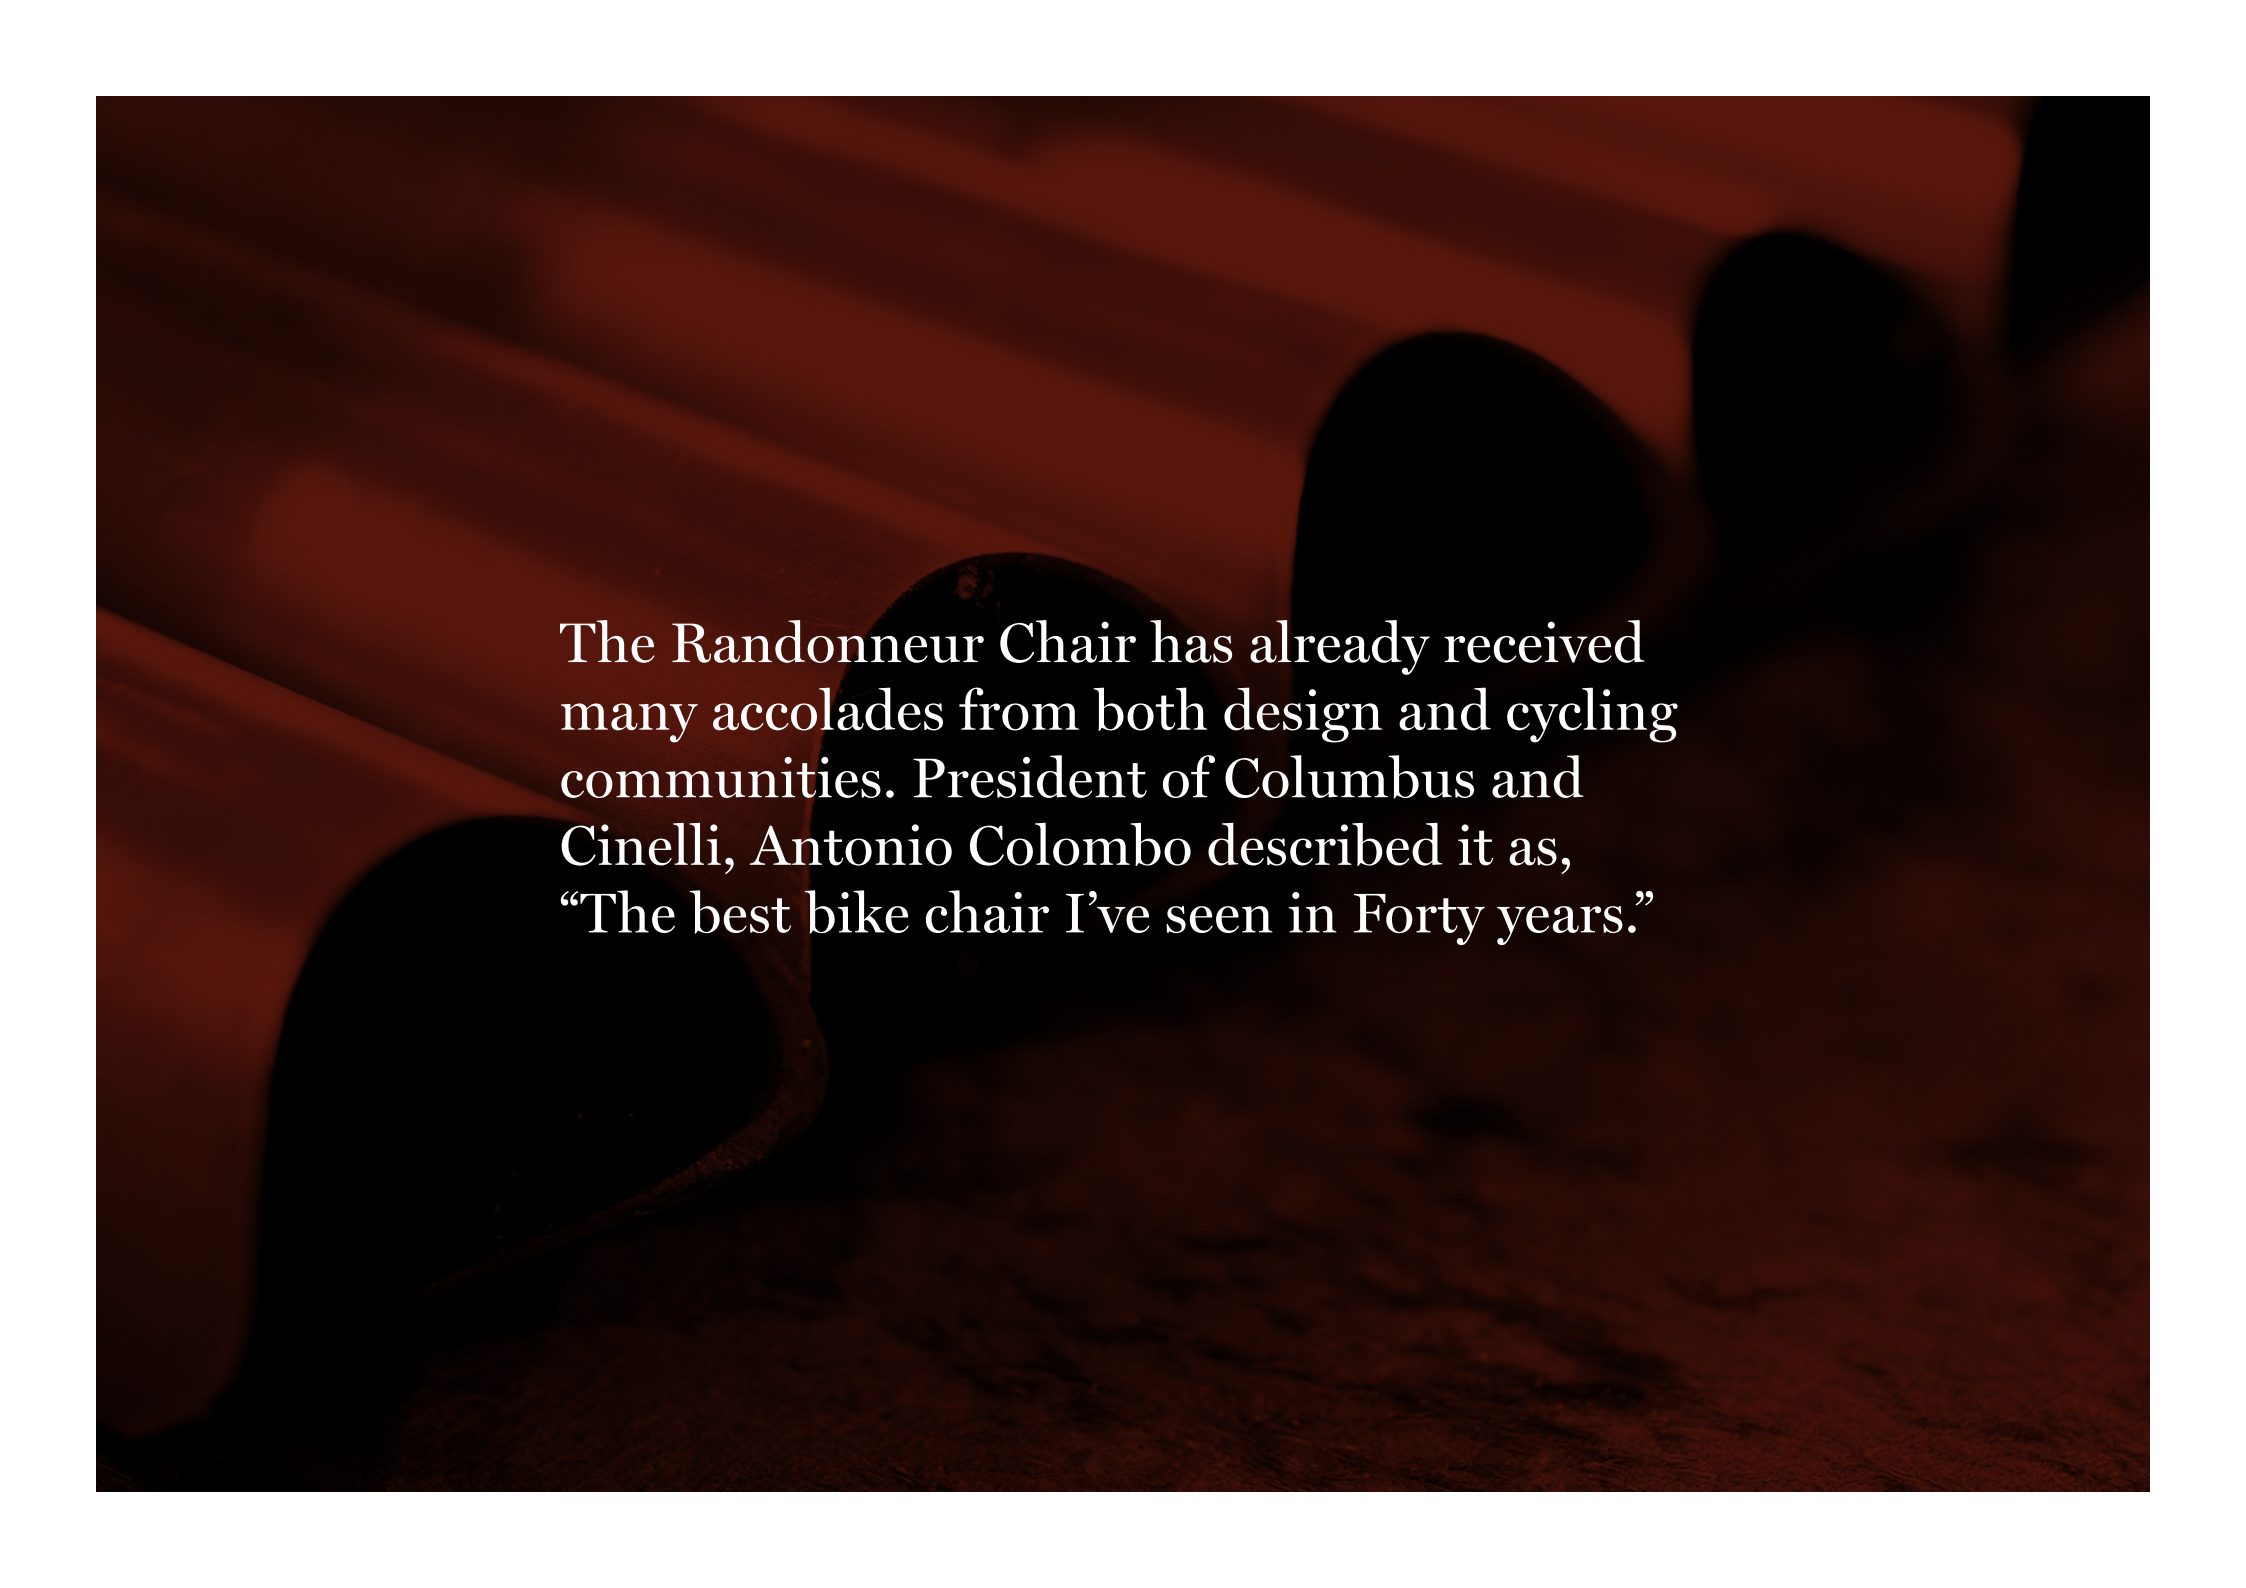

DESIGNED AND HANDCRAFTED BY TWO MAKERS

Inspired by classic hand-built racing and touring bicycles manufactured by the master Constructeurs of the 1940s, the Randonneur Chair is handcrafted from Reynolds 631 tubing, hardwood and bicycle saddle leather. Using bicycle geometries and traditional frame-building techniques, it is both a celebration of cycling and of bespoke British craftsmanship.

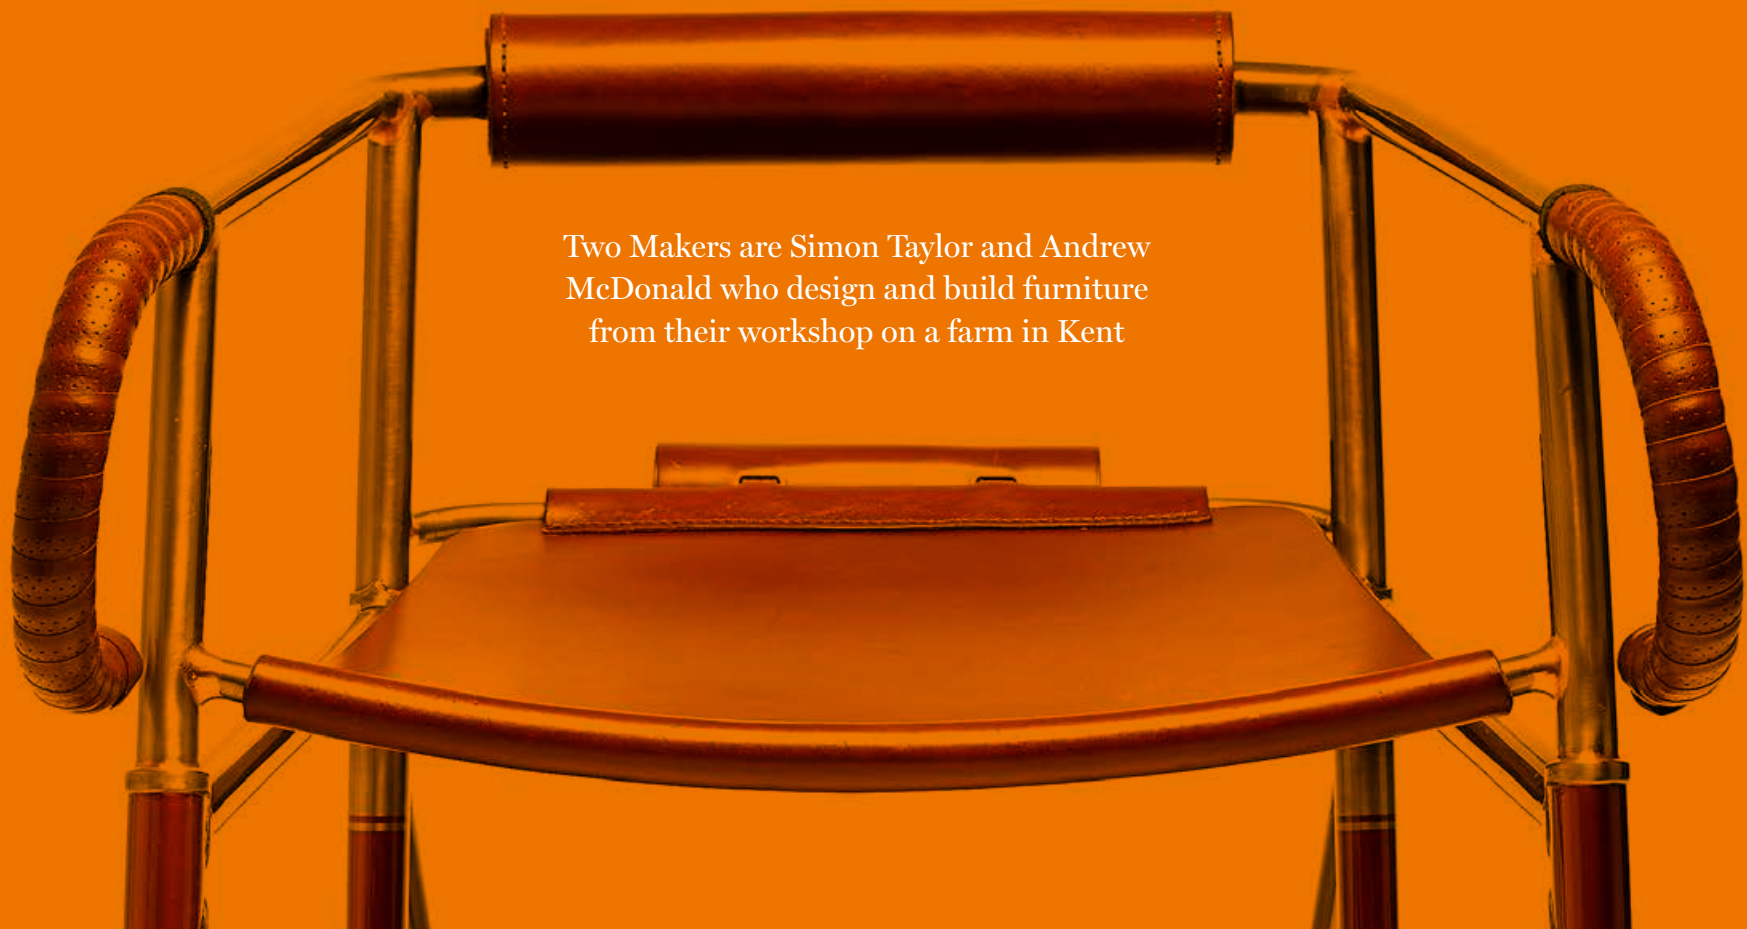

The Randonneur Chair

A dark, moody photograph of a bicycle seat and handlebars, with a quote overlaid. The image is in deep red and black tones, showing the texture of the seat and the curves of the handlebars.

The Randonneur Chair has already received many accolades from both design and cycling communities. President of Columbus and Cinelli, Antonio Colombo described it as, “The best bike chair I’ve seen in Forty years.”

They are currently available to order from Two Makers as part of a limited edition run. Every Randonneur chair is handcrafted and customised for each order. They are all unique and each chair in the series will be individually numbered. Price on application

The background of the entire image is a solid, vibrant orange. In the center, two violins are positioned vertically, their bodies facing outwards. A violin bridge is placed horizontally across the middle of the two violins, resting on their f-holes. The violins and bridge are rendered in a slightly desaturated, golden-brown color, creating a monochromatic effect against the orange background. The lighting is soft, casting gentle shadows from the instruments onto the surface below them.
